

ST. LOUIS, TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 6, 1888.

VOL. 38.—NO. 235.

CRAWFORD'S!

Tuesday.

Dear Girls: Of course you want to be pretty, and of course you know that your appearance depends more upon your head covering than upon all the rest of your toilet together. Our new "Peaked Pokes" were made just to make girls prettier. They may be called hats. We have them in fancy straws of all colors and shades; also in fancy mixed straws. A beauty is a light, airy affair in steel gray and tan fancy mixed straw, trimmed with a large, beautifully knotted double bow of tan and steel-striped ombre ribbons.

We sell these little bonnets in the pretty, rough straw at 35c, and show a full line of shades to match the new spring goods. For walking there are two specially pretty styles, the close English Walking Hat, becoming to most small, round faces, and an entirely new low-crowned large hat with broad front brim rolling at the left, flaring slightly all around and with no brim to speak of behind.

The Walking Hat is worn by young and old. A pretty idea is a handsome soft Alsatian or knotted bow just in front, held with a long, slender cut-stem or iridescent buckle. We are selling these beautiful buckles and ornaments at 25c, and the new, dainty little pins for holding the ribbons very cheap.

For Bargain Hunters. An auction lot of 1,000 dozen pair Ladies' Hoses. Black and all colors, full regular made, new spring goods, and all full regular made, worth $60 to 50c, a pair, for 250 a pair or 6 pairs for $1.40.

D. CRAWFORD & CO.

We Know Our Goods.

The Spring goods are getting ready. They'll adorn our counters shortly. We hold till then the news of them. We mustn't fore-stall your pleasure in seeing them.

Let us point out Wanamaker's advantages, too. The money-snares in the clothing business are only one side of the wit you need, to buy safely.

When you see goods that seem to look all right, remember that shoddy can be made to imitate a fine quality of all-wool cloth!

They are pretty looking printed goods that you can throw your money away on, because the colors'll come out as quick as newspaper ink on sweaty hands.

Why all this information? Because what can the store-keeper know about goods much more than you if he buys them made up? Would he buy them if he knew what sort they were? Hardly. If he would, would you buy such stuff for wearing day after day? You can do better with money, eh?

So can we. We find it pays us to make the clothing we sell. It's easier to find out shoddy and printed cloth before it's made into clothing than after.

That's the advantage Wanamaker's have. We're clothing-makers.

BERESFORD'S BLAST.

THE MANAGEMENT OF ENGLAND'S NAVAL AND MILITARY SERVICES.

A searching Inquiry probable—The Electric Lighting Act—Death of Barry Cornwall's Widow—The Trouble at Tangier—Fresh Complications Regarding Bulgaria—Turkey Compiles With Russia's Demands—Prince Ferdinand's Manifesto—Foreign News.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, March 6.—Lord Beresford's attack in Parliament yesterday on the management of the naval and military services was an unpleasant reminder to the Government of the effect of that officer's resignation. Beresford declared that the responsibility of military and naval officers in their own departments was a myth, as was also the Parliamentary control of the expenditure items. Nobody who has seen millions of pounds sterling voted away at one sitting of the Commons, as frequently happens, will be inclined to deny the latter allegation. Beresford drew a melancholy picture of frauds under the present system which he declared utterly rotten and bad. The contractors supply bent bayonets, broken cutlasses, cartridges that jammed and that would not explode. As he cannot be suspected of sympathy with the Radicals, who have long made similar complaints, Beresford's allegations attract much attention, and are likely to lead, eventually, to a searching inquiry.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHTING ACT.

The House of Lords are, meanwhile, usefully occupied amending the electric lighting act to prevent restrictions on the companies so that very little capital is attracted into the business; hence, England is more backward than almost any other country in this improvement. Several speakers referred to America as leading the way. Herschill went so far as to say that England was behind even the South Sea Islanders. Parliament, not wishing to allow any further great monopoly like the Water Gas Companies, inserted a clause in the bill of 1882 compelling electric companies to take over their plants at the public authorities after twenty-one years, at a valuation, and capitalists who consider that period not long enough to compensate for the risk, The amended bill will certainly pass and the companies then be allowed forty-two instead of twenty-one years.

JOHN MANNERS.

Lord John Manners, who succeeds his brother, the Duke of Rutland, has been a member of the Commons almost continuously for forty-seven years, since he was returned from Newark as Gladstone's colleague. The new Marquess of Granby, son of the new Duke of Rutland, is Salisbury's private secretary and will probably enter Parliament for Leicestershire, the seat his father now vacates. There is not likely to be a by-election.

THE INSPECTORS-GENERAL BILL.

In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the debate on the war estimates was continued. M. Lockroy asked for an explanation of the proposal to create five Inspectors-General, and demanded that the matter be forwarded to the Army Committee. Gen. Logerot, Minister of War, replied that the Inspectors-General would be delegates of the War Minister. The measure was an essential one. It would ensure better inspection of the condition of the army and its preparedness for war, and would enable a better watch to be kept upon the security for the national defense. [Applause.] Owing to the importance of the proposal, however, he would agree to its reference to the Army Committee.

BURNED TO DEATH. CATAGA, Ontario, March 6.—John Daley's dwelling house was burned early this morning. Mrs. Daley and two children were immediately sent for Tangier. For two weeks the situation has remained absolutely unchanged, and Consul-General Lewis has had no communication with the Pasha, regarding the United States protege who is still in prison. The inability of the United States Government to back up the demands of the Consul-General more speedily has placed Mr. Lewis in a very awkward position, in which few men would have succeeded in bearing themselves with such tact and firmness as he has displayed.

After having looked carefully into the case of the prisoners at Kabab, Mr. Lewis demanded his immediate release, and a full analogy for his discharge of every right. Knowing perfectly well that the Pasha was never averse to yield without some show of force, he telegraphed to Admiral Green at Ville Franche for a war vessel. Unfortunately, the Peninsular had just sailed for America, and the Quinlivan had been in such an unsatisfactory condition, it is said, that the trip across the Mediterranean might have been attended with danger, so it became necessary to wait for the Enterprise. It is thought that immediately after her arrival here the prisoners will be released. But it cannot be denied that the delay in the war-of-war's arrival has greatly complicated the matter, diminished American prestige, and rendered more difficult the final settlement.

VEDDER ON THE STRIKE.

He Cannot Conceive How the "O" Engineers Can Possibly Lose.

B. W. Vedder, Chairman of the Grievance Committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the Gouldsystem, arrived in the Post-Dispatch office yesterday. Vedder said I have just returned from Chicago, where I have seen all the leading men connected with the Brotherhood, and also a great many of the railroad officials. I have examined the question carefully, and aside from all partisan considerations, can say that the Burlington engineers only want what is paid on other roads. I, myself, submitted the case to the Burlington engineers, and the Missouri Pacific, with either of which the Burlington engineers would have been satisfied. Both, however, were refused by the railroad officials, who would do nothing to conciliate the strikers. The statements that have appeared as to the engineers outside of the Gouldsystem are with far less force. Such a strike, because nearly so many men have arrived in Chicago as has been stated; and such a strike, though it may be a small percentage of the total, would be a great majority. The Burlington officials have greatly exaggerated the number of strikers, and the railroad officials have greatly exaggerated the number of men who have arrived, and are unable to improve their situation.

"Which party in the present struggle will be successful, Mr. Vedder?"

"The engineers are in the right and hold the power and the money. The railroad officials are in a place of mechanism and cannot be entrusted to inexperienced hands. Even a good engineer is inferior to an engineer who is at home on a road strange to him, especially if his foreman is a new hand. Considering all the conditions, it is impossible for the engineers to lose their fight."

"Do you think it probable that the strike will be successful?"

"The Burlington is practically beaten."

"The engineers have won, and Santa

The Canal Company will convert into similar bonds those already issued, and bind the company to deal only with French firms for all implements, supplies, etc., necessary to complete the canal.

After having looked carefully into the case of the prisoners at Kabab, Mr. Lewis demanded his immediate release, and a full analogy for his discharge of every right. Knowing perfectly well that the Pasha was never averse to yield without some show of force, he telegraphed to Admiral Green at Ville Franche for a war vessel. Unfortunately, the Peninsular had just sailed for America, and the Quinlivan had been in such an unsatisfactory condition, it is said, that the trip across the Mediterranean might have been attended with danger, so it became necessary to wait for the Enterprise. It is thought that immediately after her arrival here the prisoners will be released. But it cannot be denied that the delay in the war-of-war's arrival has greatly complicated the matter, diminished American prestige, and rendered more difficult the final settlement.

THE TROUBLE AT TANGIER.

Arrival of the Enterprise Causes Much Relief to the Foreign Colony.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

TANGIER, March 6.—Great relief was felt in the Foreign Colony yesterday afternoon on the arrival of the Enterprise. The United States man-of-war Enterprise had arrived in Tangier in the morning, and that afternoon she would immediately sail for Tangier. For two weeks the situation has remained absolutely unchanged, and Consul-General Lewis has had no communication with the Pasha, regarding the United States protege who is still in prison. The inability of the United States Government to back up the demands of the Consul-General more speedily has placed Mr. Lewis in a very awkward position, in which few men would have succeeded in bearing themselves with such tact and firmness as he has displayed.

Democrats of the fact that the only men in the House who voted against the military and postal telegraph bill were BLISS, MERRIMAN, MERRIMAN and WHITE, all from New York, and all elected as Democrats.THE Cincinnati Enquirer speaks of last night's THURMUN as "lending a helping hand to the persecution of Democrats." The Enquirer evidently has a depraved conception of political morality as applied to the politics of its own State. Judge THURMUN's Democracy was never more praiseworthy vindicated than when he resigned himself to the task of prosecuting the rascals in his own party.MR. JOHN B. O'MARA of the Democratic City Central Committee said last night that if Recorder WILLIAMS remains in office the Democrats will not carry the city again for ten years. This was an unfortunate remark for Mr. O'MARA, and it seems to call for explanation. Mr.
O'MARA would hardly contend that the Recorder would strike from the registration lists all the fraudulent names that he can find.If there should ensue a fight between the Pacific Coast sugar king and the Atlantic Coast Sugar Trust the only cause of the war will be the fact that each of themis too greedy to divide. SPRECKELS will have the support of the Pacific railroad pool and the advantage of our Sandwich Island treaty, under which he is accused of importing more sugar free of duty than is produced in KALAKAUA's dominions. He threatens, if these advantages do not enable him to control the sugar market, that beet-root culture in California will. The Sugar Trust on the other hand can fall back on glucose and defy both the tariff and the California beet. It proposes to make $30,000,000 by the simple process of transferring glucose into protected sugar before SPRECKELS can get his proposed Eastern refinery into operation or raise any considerable crop of beets. Meantime consumers will pay for this inferior sweetening three or four times the price at which honest sugar sells in London.

WALL STREET IN CONGRESS.

Speaker CARLISLE's order commanding the removal of the "tickers" did not completely cut off communications between Wall street and the House of Representatives. A few days ago the New York Times printed a fac-simile of an agreement signed by S. V. WHITE of the Third Brooklyn District, binding him for a consideration to take 100 shares of Union Pacific within sixty days, at 49 per cent of their face value.While Pacific Railroad legislation is pending Mr. WHITE seems to be busy placing "puts" and "calls" among his fellow-members and speculating himself in stocks to be directly affected by their votes. Any self-respecting body of honest Representatives ought to expel a member as promptly for this sort of thing as for openly tempting other members with more direct bribes.But this is not the only illustration of the nature of a Wall street Representatives' mission in Congress. Mr. WHITE and three other New York members had the hardihood to stand up and cast the only votes that could be drummed up against the bill requiring the land-grant railroads to fulfill the obligation of their grants by operating their telegraph lines according to contract. Instead of doing this they have leased their telegraph franchise to the Western Union monopoly, which is operating the lines in utter disregard of the terms of the franchise and in derogation of the rights and service to which that franchise guaranteed to the public. The lease to the Western Union was one of the spoils of Mr. GOULD's Pacific Railroad-wrecking operations. It was and is a predatory trespass upon the vested rights of the Government and the public, but, as they can have no rights which a broker Congressman is bound to respect, Mr. WHITE stood up and denounced the bill to assert these rights as a wicked invasion of the vested rights of the Western Union monopoly.Now let the people watch the Senate's vote on this bill. They will find that while the Western Union could not muster a single vote against it from any district outside of New York, there is quite a body of Senators elected to represent monopoly and the Money Power rather than to compel assent to the demands above defined.THE Pension Bill Debate.
From the Boston Herald.The pension bill Congress has brought out on our lively debate. Senator TURPIS, the new Senator from Indiana, made his debut upon it, delivering a very carefully prepared speech in its favor. It is a finished piece of rhetoric, and shows a capacity in this accession to the Democratic side akin to that of Senator Ingalls on the other. Yet Vest of Missouri, who is much the most entertaining speaker of the Senate, has stirred things up in the other direction. Vest is not one of the most careful Senators, either in what he says or in the way he says it, but he is as bright a man as there is in Congress, and has a wit and a keenness almost as caustic, as that of Tom Reed of the House.

MEMPHIS.

IOWA's Republican House of Representatives has adopted a resolution favoring a continuance of the present high protective tariff. When the high wool tariff went into operation in 1867, Iowa's sheep were valued at $2,084,476 and her hogs at $1,483,245. Now, after twenty years of protection, her sheep are assessed at a value of $277,489, or only about one-eighth of their value twenty years ago.In the same years her unprotected hogs have increased in value to $2, 592,550, or about double their former value. In 1870, three years after she began to feel the effects of the wool tariff, she had eighty-five woolen factories, and in 1880 the number had dwindled to thirty-four. By a very close and apparently accurate computation the Chicago Tribune shows that Iowa pays about $7,700, 000 of the $230,000,000 of revenue collected from dutiable imports, and about $88,300,000 of the bounties which manufacturers to collect on their goods, so that the total cost of the tariff to Iowa is about $6,000, 000 a year, of which nearly all goes into pockets on the other side of the Alleghenies, where are held the billions of mortgages on Western farms. It is a continuance of this enormous tribute levied upon Western industries for the benefit of Eastern capitalists that Iowa is paying for. Will her Congressmen vote to keep her people in this attitude of "dumb driven cattle," burdened with such taxes "for the purpose," as the Tribune puts it, "of raising a big crop of Eastern millionaires?"

Chicago Press Railroad News.

From the Philadelphia Record.

The breezy Western freshness which pervades the Passenger Department of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company has been manifested in its latest aspect by the general distribution of extracts from the heavy editorial columns of the Chicago newspapers, in all of which the strike of the locomotive engineers on the "Q" line, as it is known throughout the West, is especially noted. The word "strike" evidently has a depraved conception of political morality as applied to the politics of its own State. Judge
praiseworthy vindicated than when he
resigned himself to the task of prosecuting the rascals in his own party.MR. JOHN B. O'MARA of the Democratic City Central Committee said last night
that if Recorder WILLIAMS remains in

fortunate remark for Mr. O'MARA, and it seems to call for explanation. Mr.
O'MARA would hardly contend that the Recorder would strike from the registration

the Pacific Coast sugar king and the Atlantic Coast Sugar Trust the only cause of the war will be the fact that each of themis unreliable should be so marked as to be a conspicuous a feature of the news sent out from Chicago. Perhaps a plethora of political conventions in that city has taught the newsgatherers the contagious trick of wild exaggeration. Thus, when it has been reported from the Windy City that hundreds of Reading engineers were arriving in Chicago to lay off, it has been necessary to recall the fact that the total number of engineers who resigned or were discharged during the late strike on the Reading system was 107. These freaks of extravagant expression, however, are no longer confusing to the general public, which has learned to take Chicago news—and especially Chicago railroad news—with a fair degree of allowance.A Protectionist's View of the Mills Bill.
From the Philadelphia Times.While the new tariff bill is far from perfect, taken as a whole it is a wiser, safer and better protective tariff than the tariff now in force in the country. While it reduces the high and admittedly extortionate duties of war times which serve the purpose of protection to industries which yet need the fostering care of the Government, in no instance does it reduce the safe line of full protection to the extent of the difference in the wages of labor at home and abroad, and that is the only true standard of protection to industry. Whenever it is carried beyond that point it becomes a protection to the manufacturer at the expense of the worker.BRITISH MINISTER WEST and Miss West

Spanish was the native tongue of the late Mrs.

of 100 years; then fearing that the practice might shorten her life, she gave it up. She is

METROPOLITAN PRESS.

What the Editors of the New York Journals Are Saying This Morning.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, March 6.—THE WORLD says:
"It is humiliating to see the millionaire representatives of great industries going about crying that they will be ruined if brought into competition with people 3,000 miles away under anything less protective than a 47 per cent tariff. And it is a lie."THE SUN says: "Senator Blair wants Congress to do the same thing that the Columbia Club did in Atlanta near year. As a permanent exhibition there is nothing superior to Blair."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "The position of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the Brotherhood of the American Railway Association is labor and hostile to the best interests of society. The engineers should be convinced that their strike will be ruinous to the Chinese laborers who shall enter the United

POSSUM

How to Serve It in the Old Virginia Style.
From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

There is a noted gourmet in this city, Col. Ned Goboh by name, who can discount the most celebrated club and restaurant caterers in the gastronomic art.

Once, at a little private dinner party, the Colonel had a roasted turkey as the piece de resistance. The turkey was drowned in vinegar for two days before the auspicious occasion in which he was to appear so magnificently. For twenty-four hours previous to the meal, he was frozen up in a block of Louisiana ice. Then he was taken out and becoming dressed, it was sent to the table, and properly stuffed each with truffles; then each gizzard was stuffed into an eviscerated papabotto, and the six papabottos were stuffed into the single bird.

The latest wrinkle of Col. N. and Daniel is to have a fat possum in the Old Virginia style. The creature is now on hand, having been shipped to one of our Canal street clubs at a cost of $2.50.

Col. N. suggests that on a strictly epicurean regimen that possum shall be fed on an apple diet for at least sixty days before the dinner. He provides a dozen apples daily. If the possum does not like the country in the meantime, and the solemn-looking mepulapun does not explode by means of an intestinal explosion, the 1440 apples inside of his time limit. One thousand four hundred and forty apples, at least each.

The possum is to be skinned for this delicate dish will be a pack of Jeems River sweet potatoes, specially imported from Virginia, at a cost of $1.50.

The possum is to be singed in hot ashes to get the hair off, parboiled, smothered in potato soup, and then sent to the supervision of the two director-generals of the enterprise and a corps of competent assistants.

Next, the necessary fluid to float him successfully on the table is to be the alimentary canal will cost at least $10.

A Louisiana darky gets as much fun shaking him up in the ashes of his cabin, heart, damped by a few roasting potatoes, and eating him from the few remaining bones, and the possum is apt to lay more comfortably on his conscience. To our two epicures one might say non possumus.

Hemmed In.

From the Arkansas Traveler.

A planter sent for an old negro. When the negro entered the room the planter said:

"John, did you see a bottle up there on the shelf?"

"No, sah, I ain't seed none."

"An' I know I is dat standin' right yere."

"Do you know who took it?"

"I do, sah, I know."

"You are certain that you didn't take it, are you?"

"Co'se I am. What make you come talkin' ter me like that? I'se not a nigger, I'se not a possum, I'se not a mule, I'se not a' er possum."

"The reason I am so careful is that the bottle was full of poisoned whisky."

"I ain't seed none."
